

Quick Access to Bariatric Equipment When You Need It

Keeping Patients and Caregivers Safe

Manual patient handling is the greatest risk factor for overexertion injuries. While bariatric patients account for only 10% of hospital admissions, they also account for 30% of staff injuries. Plus, your bariatric census can be unpredictable, which can make it difficult to secure the patient-ready bariatric equipment you need.

Flexible Bariatric Solutions

With our bariatric equipment solutions, we work with you to identify the specific needs of your bariatric patients and your caregivers, and we develop a flexible, customized equipment program - whether it involves an entire bariatric collection or individual pieces of equipment to keep your patients and caregivers safe.

Bariatric Equipment Solution Options

Rental

- Just-in-time peak need rental
- Long-term rental agreements

Clinical Engineering Services

- Flexible, on-demand access to highly responsive and trained technicians.

About Agiliti

Agiliti helps hospitals reclaim millions of dollars in wasted medical equipment. The company places equipment management experts and clinical engineers in more than 7,000 hospitals to ensure that the right equipment is in the right place at the right time. Onsite services free nurses and other clinicians to spend more time caring for patients and less time searching for the equipment they need. Agiliti also provides responsive rental services for a full range of equipment, including respiratory systems, infusion therapy devices, specialty beds and surgical lasers. A nationwide network allows the company to serve all health systems and hospitals across the U.S.
